Chapter 364: The Eternal Radiance of the Archangels

The eight archangels created by Sung Jin-Woo were not only symbols of his divine power but also embodiments of his will and purpose. Each archangel was crafted with a specific role and function, ensuring that the vast multiverse under his protection would remain in harmony.

The Nature of the Archangels

The archangels were beings of pure light, their very existence radiating divine energy. Their creation was a testament to Sung Jin-Woo's mastery of both primordial light and darkness. While their luminous forms represented hope and order, their immense power symbolized the unyielding strength of justice.

Immortal Essence: The archangels were eternal, their essence tied directly to Sung Jin-Woo's divine power. As long as he existed, they could never truly be destroyed.

Divine Wings: Their wings, numbering in the hundreds or thousands, were more than symbols of status. Each feather was imbued with celestial energy capable of shielding entire realms or obliterating malevolent forces.

The Roles of the Archangels

Each archangel had a distinct purpose, their roles intertwined to maintain balance and order across the multiverse:

1. Gabriel: The strategist and captain of the divine armies. Gabriel’s six hundred wings marked him as a leader, inspiring loyalty among angels and fear among adversaries. His voice carried the weight of Sung Jin-Woo’s authority.

2. Michael: The bringer of blessings and hope, Michael acted as a bridge between the divine and mortals. His gentle yet firm demeanor reminded all beings of Sung Jin-Woo's compassion and strength.

3. Israfel: The harbinger of ultimate judgment. Israfel’s trumpet was a symbol of divine reckoning, capable of ending all opposition in a single resounding note. His twelve hundred wings shimmered with an otherworldly glow.

4. Azrael: The vanguard and purifier, Azrael was the tip of the divine spear. His role in Gabriel’s army ensured that no corruption could linger, and no enemy could stand unopposed.
5-8. The Bearers of the Throne: These four archangels were unmatched in strength, each with two thousand four hundred wings. They were entrusted with the honor of upholding the throne of the True Absolute One, their mere presence signifying Sung Jin-Woo’s unparalleled supremacy.

Hierarchy and Authority

The archangels were second only to Sung Jin-Woo himself. They operated with absolute loyalty, their very existence dedicated to fulfilling his will. Each archangel commanded legions of angels, spreading his light and protecting creation.

Chain of Command: Gabriel, as captain, coordinated their efforts, ensuring unity in purpose. The Bearers of the Throne stood as guardians of the highest authority, while the others carried out missions across realms.

Communication: Though Sung Jin-Woo resided in the True Absolute One Domain, the archangels could communicate with him directly through their divine connection.

A Symbol of Hope and Power

The archangels were not merely warriors or administrators. To the beings across the multiverse, they were symbols of hope, representing Sung Jin-Woo’s eternal vigilance and care. Their presence brought solace to the oppressed and terror to those who dared to threaten peace.

The skies of countless realms shimmered with their radiant wings, a constant reminder that the True Absolute One’s light shone everywhere.
